Rethinking the Food Narrative

Systemic intervention in the logistical spaces of aggregation + distribution in the food retail sector of Cape Town, South Africa

Danielle Ford + Tamara Vareen

Small Scale Farmer / Food Activist

While global networks transcend limitations of distance and elaborate spatial-temporal patterns of seasons, they also have uneven impact on places, intensifying production and socio-regional while pushing others to the margins of economic viability (1).

Corporate Food Retail Sector

The corporate supermarket is transforming the food retail sector in South Africa, already expanding into multiple sites and scales, various stakeholders, across varying contexts, in order to propose a systemic change rate volatility. Respatializing the food narrative, to include the small scale farmer and informal and governance (ESG) issues and challenges. These include the need to address urban food security, viability "(1)
