The Scenario

Zoom in on Department X at a small university. Junior faculty members are busy building up their dossier; they are working hard in the classroom, providing service to their profession and making developments in their research areas. They also have little time to think about publishing or time to develop skills related to publishing.

Where should I publish?

- o Finding possible journals
- o Special Issues
- o Publishing Timelines
- o Acceptance Rates
- o Check indexing for discoverability
- o Check impact factors

Create a list of Best Bets according to faculty member priorities.

Positives

- More familiar with faculty research.
- Higher Publication Rate
- Frees up time to write & discover.

Negatives

- Time intense.
- Faculty don't learn the skills.
