TULSA, OKLAHOMA

Nancy Friese is a landscape artist working in drawing, painting, and printmaking. Her educational background includes undergraduate work at the Art Academy of Cincinnati and at the Yale Summer School of Music and Art in 1976, a year of graduate work at the University of California, Berkeley, in 1977-78, and an M.F.A. from the Yale School of Art in 1980. She has taught at the Silvermine Guild Center for the Arts in New Canaan, Connecticut, 1980-85; Bennington College, 1980-81; Bloomsburg University, Bloomsburg, Pennsylvania, 1982; and the University of Tulsa, 1983 to the present. She has been artist in residence at the Millay Colony for the Arts in Austerlitz, New York, and at Artists for the Environment Foundation in Walpack Center, New Jersey, both in 1981. In the fall of 1984 she was guest curator at the Gilcrease Institute of American History and Art in Tulsa for the exhibition "Prints of Nature: Poetic Etchings of Mary Nimmo Moran." Friese is currently writing a catalogue raisonné of Moran's works and doing research into other artists of the late nineteenth century who worked in printmaking in America.
