Self-Promotion

It’s all about making connections.
Ways to self-promote:

- Social media
- Website
- Fundraising
- Bio/Artist Statement
- Stage presence
Self promotion: social media

- Connect with fans; keep them informed on upcoming gigs, events, and projects.
- Determine the “social influencers”
- Keep a calendar of what to post and when based on upcoming events and projects.
- Use multiple platforms
Self-promotion: fundraising

- It’s all about your ability to connect
- Make your call to action specific and time-sensitive
- Keep the message consistent from platform to platform
- Thank the donors - preferably with a personalized message
Self-promotion: bio or artist statement

Bio:
- It is not a biography
- Avoid hype, cliche, and laundry lists
- Don’t write in chronological order

Artist statement:
- Keep it short
- Start with a hook
- Include statements about your philosophy, approach, influences, and accomplishments.

Blank Baroque Fingering Chart Paper

I've created three versions of my blank fingering chart paper, using key work diagrams for various types of Baroque bassoons. The first is for a basic four-keyed Baroque instrument (low B-flat, low D, F, A-flat). The other two are for instruments that include an E-flat key, for the left little finger (German style) or for [...]

Q: Where to start?

A: Start with a self assessment.

Have students ask themselves:

- What are you strengths and weakness?
- What needs improving?
- What do you want for your career?
- What do you want personally, professionally, and artistically in the next two years?

THE BIG INTERVIEW WILLARD AHDRITZ

SAY, YOU WANNA REVOLUTION?

Kobalt CEO Willard Ahdritz believes the music industry is killing itself. He has a vision for the future, one he says will benefit every artist, writer and rights-holder in existence. But it will cause music biz heavyweights short-term pain - something he says they're desperate to avoid.

Business Description:
Warner Music Group Corp. (WMG) is a major label music company with interests in recorded music, music publishing and artist services. It owns several record labels in the music industry and is a music publisher with a catalog of more than one million copyrights worldwide. The company's recorded music segment markets, sells, and licenses recorded music in various physical and digital formats. The segment also participates in image and brand rights associated with artists, including merchandising, sponsorships, touring and artist management. The company uses its website as a channel of distribution. The music publishing segment owns and acquires rights to musical compositions, exploits and markets these compositions and receives royalties or fees for their use. Its artist services provides a distribution and marketing network, encompassing promotion and licensing, for its own labels, namely Warner, Elektra, and Atlantic; and for independent labels and artists, through its worldwide service organization, Alternative Distribution Alliance.

Rap Remixed at the National Symphony

Tickets sold out in just minutes after the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts announced in late September that rapper Kendrick Lamar would perform with the National Symphony Orchestra this fall. For the October 19 show, NSO Principal Pops Conductor Steven Reineke led an orchestral version of Lamar’s 2015 critically praised album To Pimp a Butterfly, featuring the NSO Pops and Lamar’s own band. The orchestral version was not the NSO’s first time with a rapper; in 2013, the orchestra joined Nas to perform that artist’s 1994 album Illmatic. In a pre-concert interview at Washington, D.C., broadcaster WTOP, Reineke said, “A few years ago I realized there’s one genre of music that’s very important in American culture that we have never worked with…. and that is hip-hop.” Lamar’s To Pimp a Butterfly addresses issues including depression, racism, and celebrity culture.

Atlanta Symphony Taps Barthlament as Executive Director

The Atlanta Symphony Orchestra has named Jennifer Barthlament executive director following an international search. She takes up charge this January, succeeding Terry Nead, who had led the ASO administration on an interim basis since October 2014. Barthlament goes to Atlanta from the Cleveland Orchestra, where she was general manager. Before assuming that post in 2013, she spent four years as executive director of Michigan’s Kalamazoo Symphony Orchestra and seven as general manager of the Omaha Symphony in Nebraska. In 2013 the League of American Orchestras awarded Barthlament its Helen M. Thompson Award for outstanding early-career work as an executive director. Barthlament is a clarinetist by training, with a bachelor’s degree in music from Emory University and a master’s from the Eastman School of Music, where she founded the New Eastman Symphony.
