

HARVARD INTERNATIONAL LAW JOURNAL

The Harvard International Law Journal is the oldest student edited international law journal in the United States. The Journal publishes articles and comments on varied topics of interest to both international lawyers and scholars. A large part of each issue is devoted to short legal analyses of recent treaties, statutes and court cases of international concern.

Harvard International Law Journal
Publications Center
Harvard Law School
Cambridge, MA 02138

Subscription rates:
Domestic $20.00
Foreign Surface Mail $23.00
Foreign Air Mail $35.00

AUSTRALIAN JOURNAL OF LAW AND SOCIETY

Volume 2 Number 2:

Over-Representation of Aboriginal Children in Care Proceedings Before the Children's Court of South Australia; Affirmative Action, Merit and the Liberal State; The Annexation of New Zealand to New South Wales in 1840: What of the Treaty of Waitangi?; Abolition Reconsidered: Issues and Problems; Seduction and Punishment in Late Nineteenth Century New South Wales.

The issue also contains review articles.

Volume 3:

A special issue devoted to the publication of papers delivered at the Feminist Legal Issues Conference, held on 15 March 1986 at Macquarie University. Contents include: Feminist Jurisprudence: Illusion or Reality; Feminism and Legal Method: The Difference It Makes; Patriarchy and the State; Feminism, Positivism and the Law; IVF: Towards a Feminist Critique.

The issue also contains a review of recent feminist literature and commentary on topical issues.

Subscriptions:

- $6.00 for full-time students
  - $10.00 for individuals
  - $14.00 for institutions
- (Per volume. Back issues available)

The Subscription Manager

Australian Journal of Law and Society
School of Law
Macquarie University
NSW 2109, Australia

EMPLOYER SERVICES

The Placement Services Office of Syracuse University College of Law exists to serve its students, alumni, and the entire spectrum of employers of legally trained individuals. Employers who seek legally trained individuals regularly or only on an occasional basis are served by our many programs designed to meet their needs responsively, and at no cost to you. We will introduce you to applicants who are not only qualified, but genuinely interested in your opportunity. We introduce you to them through a combination of traditional interview programs and innovative methods designed to meet the recruiting needs of virtually any legal employer. For more information on our variety of employer services, please contact:

Director of Placement Services
Syracuse University College of Law
Syracuse, New York 13244-1030
(315) 423-1941

