Artists' Papers in the George Arents Research Library: Sources for the Study of Twentieth-Century American Art

BY MARK F. WEIMER AND DONNA CAPELLE COOK

For nearly thirty years the George Arents Research Library for Special Collections at Syracuse University has actively acquired primary materials to support research and study in the field of art history including, as outlined in an internal collection development statement of 1961, "the papers of architects, artists, sculptors, industrial designers, cartoonists, photographers, art critics, educators, and the records of professional associations and galleries".

Beginning with the gift of the papers of sculptors James Earle Fraser, Laura Gardin Fraser, and Anna Hyatt Huntington in the 1960s, and continuing to the recent acquisition of collections relating to Diego Rivera and Philip Evergood, the Arents Library has played a leading role in documenting the work of twentieth-century artists. Sculptors, women artists, and emigré artists are particularly well represented. Over the past decade, the Library has actively cooperated with the Smithsonian Institution's Archives of American Art to consolidate and preserve artist collections by the preparation and distribution of microfilm copies of its holdings.

Original works by many of the artists listed below are held by the Syracuse University Art Collections which coordinated its acquisitions with those of the Arents Library throughout the 1960s, the period of greatest activity. In addition to the holdings of the University Art Collections, researchers should also consult the Syracuse University Archives for materials relating to faculty artists and educators and the records of art programs and special commissions at Syracuse University.

In addition to the personal papers of the artists listed here, the Arents Library holds a number of related collections, including the records of a number of galleries (Associated American Artist Galleries, Grand Central Moderns, and ACA Gallery), professional organizations (National Association of Schools of Art, Art Libraries Society/North America), and art critics (John Canaday, Dudley Crafts Watson, and Émile Schaub-Koch).

This checklist is limited to materials of artists whose work was done primarily in this century. Collections in the field of architecture have been described in: Werner Seligmann, "A Brief Survey of Architectural Holdings at the Syracuse University Libraries", Syracuse University Library Associates Courier 19 (Spring 1984): 105–12. Future checklists will enumerate the Library's extensive holdings in such allied fields as cartoon art, photography, and industrial design.

Dear Jake &amp; Gwen:

It was mighty good to learn to-day that Jake has been elected to the National Institute of Arts & Letters. I am so happy — the Institute needs <sup>more</sup> painters with some guts & imagination like you. Shahn wrote a beautiful tribute to you I thought, when he proposed you. The only way I could help was by voting for you. I'd have been honored if they'd asked me to second you.

Love to both
