Spring 5-1-2005

The [Radio] Play’s the Thing Direction and Production of The Shakespearean Baseball Game: A Comedy of Errors, Hits and Runs

Michael K. Girts

Follow this and additional works at: https://surface.syr.edu/honors_capstone

Part of the Film and Media Studies Commons, Radio Commons, and the Television Commons

Recommended Citation

https://surface.syr.edu/honors_capstone/661

This Honors Capstone Project is brought to you for free and open access by the Syracuse University Honors Program Capstone Projects at SURFACE. It has been accepted for inclusion in Syracuse University Honors Program Capstone Projects by an authorized administrator of SURFACE. For more information, please contact surface@syr.edu.
The [Radio] Play’s the Thing

Direction and Production of
The Shakespearean Baseball Game:
A Comedy of Errors, Hits and Runs

Michael K. Girts

Candidate for B.S. Degree in Television/Radio/Film with Honors

Also earning a B.F.A. in Acting

May/2005

APPROVED

Thesis Project Advisor:_______________________________
Peter K. Moller

Second Reader:____________________________________
Marie Kemp

Honors Director:____________________________________

Honors Representative:_______________________________
Directing and producing The Shakespearean Baseball Game was a perfect capstone project for my Syracuse University career. I have the proud distinction of being the only student at SU to graduate with both a B.S. in Television/Radio/Film and a B.F.A. in Acting. My goal was to invest my time and energy into a thesis that would utilize my expertise in both areas. Directing and producing this drama has been just that project.

I’ve learned about drama as a visual and audial medium. In radio drama, however, the director must paint the picture – must tell a story – with sound alone. My drama training did not wholly prepare me for this venture, but my radio training helped me to compensate. As talk show director at WAER, I favored pre-packaged pieces that (a) told a clear story and (b) contained musical elements to keep the listener attentive and entertained. Those pieces were factual, not fictional. I was eager to experience the creative freedom of producing an entirely fictional radio feature.

The Shakespearean Baseball Game was a joyful process. It tells the story of a baseball game in Shakespearean verse. The humor lies primarily in the parodied lines from Shakespeare’s classics. I conceptualized the piece as a mixture of the realistic and the presentational. I wanted the piece to sound as if it were taking place at a real life baseball game. I thought it needed real sounds that people would recognize, so my listeners – without the aide of seeing the action – could go on this journey with my actors. Still, I needed to create a fictional, romanticized, silly world where baseball managers, players and umpires would speak in rhyming verse. I felt my piece needed to embrace the naturalistic and the abstract. I think I found an appropriate balance.

The first step was to record the monologues, dialogue, singing, accompaniment, and sound effects. The second step was to edit it all together. The piece aired April 23, 2005 on WAER. I am proud of it.

There is a special connection between my Television/Radio/Film training and my Acting training: both have taught me to be a story-teller. For my thesis project, I’ve chosen to tell the story of The Shakespearean Baseball Game. I hope my listeners enjoy.
Table of Contents

1. Advice to Future Honors Students
2. Acknowledgments
3. Preface
4. Time Line – Fall 2003 to April 23, 2005
18. Gordon Lester’s Article on The Shakespearean Baseball Game
20. The Shakespearean Baseball Game: A Comedy of Errors, Hits and Runs
25. “Brush Up Your Shakespeare” by Cole Porter
29. Sources Cited